

Bazooka Arts - About Organisation

Hello, this is Bazooka Arts, my name is Bryony Murray, and I'm a visual artist and designer. I co-founded Bazooka Arts with my colleague Zoe Brook, who is a theatre artist and drama therapist.

We're based in the south side of Glasgow, however, we work on an outreach basis across the whole of west and central Scotland.

We deliver a wide range of art and drama workshops, projects and training - specifically in health, education and community settings.

I enjoy working in this field, because the arts are my passion, and it's incredibly rewarding seeing the impact that participating in arts activity can have on some of our participants. For some of them it truly is life-changing, in a positive way, of course! And that really is an incredible thing to witness.

Our method of delivery aims to be of maximum benefit to our participants, promoting positive mental health and well-being, and ultimately improving their quality of life, and the arts is essential to this.
